

PH.D. PROGRAM: ACADEMIC POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

I. LEARNING OUTCOMES

two additional fields of economics and be able to analyze and understand the issues in their chosen fields at a level consistent with the state of the art in those fields.

than the May of ering of their second year.
The required courses for each field comprehensive exam

of Graduate, Research, or Teaching Assistantships or Teaching Fellowships and will have to cover their own to complete the degree. However, financial support is subject to a budget constraint. Our first commitment is

Students receiving financial aid from the department as a GA, TA or TF are prohibited from accepting a second

IV. ADVISEMENT

Fourth, the sooner you develop such a proposal,

voluminous early empirical findings, but is not sure

And last, the more organized the early stages of your dis

thoughts; but pragmatically, one has to finish!

Statement of the problem

sufficient detail to bring the reader unfamiliar with this

Review of the literature concise

be able to build upon and extend the frontier of the field.

Plan of research